

Making a difference...

Message

The Greek philosopher Heraclitus (535 BC) said, "There is nothing more constant than change." And to amplify that Mahatma Gandhi said "Be the change that you wish to see in the world."

So ADRA India, through our partners, community supporters, donors, staff and leaders, has taken that idea and put it into practise by working together for positive and lasting change in the lives of those within our reach.

Through community mobilization to help treat and eradicate disease, by educating young people about health and hygiene so that the community is a cleaner and safer place to grow and live, to assisting refugees who wish to find their way home again and resettle into a normal life in their own communities, to rebuilding homes after disasters have destroyed them and making them better and stronger and more resilient to climatic events, to providing shelter for families during the monsoons and flooding that swept away their homes and belongings. These are all ways that we deal with the constant change in life that threatens our communities but offers us an opportunity to work together to strengthen those same communities.

On the back of a business card I found this quote, "There is strength in the differences between us as individuals, but there is progress and empowerment where we overlap as community."

ADRA India brings a range of skills and strength through partnerships with corporate donors, international donors, private gifts and government partnerships. By working in partnership ADRA can overlap these strengths with local knowledge about climate, environment, social and cultural issues, health and nutrition, education and economics, to bring progress and empowerment for the people of India.

By unlocking the potential already inherent in local communities we can foster long-term and sustainable development success.

India is a fascinating blend of ancient civilization and culture mixed with rapid technological and economic growth, and in this climate of constant change we must work together to blend the best of both so that we manage those changes for the good of our communities and the protection of our children's future so that we are "the change that you wish to see in the world."

About ADRA India

The Adventist Development and Relief Agency – ADRA is a global network of independent humanitarian organizations established in India in 1992 by the Seventh-Day Adventist Church. With a presence in more than 130 countries, ADRA provides individual and community development and disaster relief irrespective of political and religious affiliations, age, gender or ethnicity.

Our Mission

ADRA works with people in poverty and distress to create positive change and justness through empowering partnerships and responsible action.

Our Vision

ADRA is a professional, learning and efficient network that embodies integrity and transparency. ADRA reaches across boundaries, empowering and speaking out for the at-risk and forgotten to achieve measurable, documented and durable changes in lives and society.

Education

Sri Lankan Refugee Camps and AIR colony slums are generally congested and cramped; they suffer from unhygienic sewage facilities, poor infrastructure and minimal livelihood opportunities. Their life style, coupled with limited economic opportunities further contributes to their problem. Due to this, community members especially children are prone to suffer from health and hygienic issues.

Hence, ADRA India under its Lebara Child Development Program (LCDP) focuses exclusively on the needs and issues of vulnerable and displaced children and strives for a better future of these children in Thiruvallur SLR camps and slum in Chennai (Phase VI). Under this programme ADRA takes care of the issues related to infrastructure, livelihood opportunities, health and hygiene.

Water, Sanitation & Hygiene

Community surveys conducted by UNICEF, Indian Public Health Association, Water and Sanitation Program & The World Bank show that an enormously large number of children annually die due to diarrheal diseases (120,000) and suffer from chronic malnutrition (62,00,000).

ADRA addresses the issues arising from poor sanitation & hygiene, through the "Banega Swachh India" program which aims to change the behaviour of children towards hygiene and sanitation. After hygiene session, students now carry their soap and handkerchief. Students are actually showing changes in their behaviour in varying numbers like hand washing before taking meal and after loo, dental cleaning, use of dustbins etc. Damaged toilets were repaired in schools. There are certain cases where parents are constructing toilets in their homes as they were continuously told by their kids about the health risks of defecating in the open.

ADRA programs give detailed practical knowledge about basic precautions and habits that can keep the whole family healthy. ADRA also brings proper teaching curriculum, kits, books and material to every school to help teachers make the lessons interesting and effective.

This project highly impacts the community and brings change to the hygienic environment of schools. The results have been seen and appreciated by the government officials and stakeholders.

Protection and Livelihoods

With the end of civil war and government changes in Sri Lanka, the refugee community in India expected peace, reconciliation and development back home. So there was an immediate and urgent need for the refugees in India, to have credible and updated information about the prevailing socio economic and political situation in Sri Lanka in order to decide on the possibility of returns. This was when Local Economic and Social Strengthening (LESS) Project became useful.

When ADRA began working for the non-camp refugees, it realised that the community had more issues and challenges that needed immediate attention. With the support of Department of Rehabilitation, UNHCR and other stakeholders, protection needs of the non-camp refugees were addressed. ADRA recognized that refugees had no livelihood support and developed solid initiatives to address this gap through Livelihood Support for Non-camp Refugees (LSR) project. Thus the project has helped to strengthen the entrepreneurial skills of refugees and made efforts to improve their capacity to generate a more stable income while living in Tamil Nadu and upon returning to Sri Lanka.

MAIN ACTIVITIES

Operation of Drop in Center (DIC), Awareness creation of Government schemes, Sensitize government authorities, Reach out to non-camp refugees, conduct rapid assessment.

Identification & Selection of Refugees as beneficiaries, Business Orientation, Plan Development, Entrepreneurial Refugees Selection, Providing In-Kind Assistance

ADRA also identified that there were no representing bodies for non-camp refugees, so to take care of their protection issues Protection and Livelihood Assistance for Sri Lankan non-camp Refugees in India (PLANR) project was executed by ADRA for coming up with the durable solution to the protection issues of the non-camp refugees. This project provides improvement of protection and increased livelihood opportunities for the Sri Lankan non-camp refugees through creating sustained and efficient protection systems and increased livelihood capacity with Sri Lankan Tamil refugees in out- camp settings.
